Queen Victoria's Friendship for George Penbody—An Invitation to Windsor for a "Quiet Talk"-Fatul Interference of Death.

London, Nov. 11, 1869.

I learn to-day that at a moment just immediately prior to the late George Peabody leaving England on his last visit to America Queen Victoria addressed a letter in royal autograph to him in which she expressed a great wish to meet him at a personal interview, and requesting him to inform her of the moment of his return to England. On arrival at his home in this city from United States, Mr. Peabody, in accordance with her Majesty's invitation, communicated the fact to the Court, and in reply received an invitation from the Queen to come and spend a day quictly with her on her return to Windsor from Scotland.

When the Queen was subsequently made aware of the very serious illness of Mr. Peabody she proposed to visit Sir Curtis Lampson's house and see him but the rapidly ratal termination of the disease prevented her Majesty, to her very great regret, from carrying her friendly intention into practical effect.

GENERAL ORDER—NO. 75.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, WARBINGTON, NOV. 10, 1899.

The General of the Army, with profound regret, has to announce the decease of one of the very few remaining veterans of the War of 1812—Major General John E. Wool, of the United States Army—which occurred at his residence at Troy, N. Y., at an early hour this morning, it cannot be necessary to recount the achievements of one whose name is familier to even the youngest officer. From his entry upon a military career in April, 1812, until his homorable retirement in a ripe old age in 1803, his services are a matter of youngest officer. From his entry upon a military career in April, 1812, until his honorable retirement in a ripe old age in 1803, his services are a matter of record in history. Taking a complemous rank for military capacity and daring bravery within the first six months of his service at Queenstown, where he was severely wounded, he has been no less distinguished by activity, efficiency and bravery in every succeeding war against the United States than by the continuous devotion to the responsible duty in peace as inspector General and general officer for a longer period than usually fails to the lot of man. On the day of his funeral thriteen guns will be fired at in cryals of half an hoar, commencing when the procession moves at Waterviletr Asenal, near Troy, N. Y. One flag will be displayed at half-mast at the garrisoned posts within the Department of the East, over which he so long exercised the command.

Income and Expenses of the Government for the Last Quarter. WASHINGTON, Nov. 11, 1869.

The Paraguayan Investigation.
The House Sub-Committee of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Orth, of Indiana, chairman, met shortly before two o'clock this afternoon and remained in session nearly two hours. Mr. Webb, ex-Minister to Brazil, was called up. As Mr. Webb is rather verbose in his explanations the examination of to-day was merely preliminary. Mr. Webb's observations were principally directed against Admiral Godon and his course while in command of the South Atlantic squadron. He stated that that gentleman had exceeded his powers and had assumed diploceeded his powers and had assumed appo-matic functions. Mr. Webb being very sensitive on questions of etiqueite did not much ap-plaud Admiral Godon. Mr. Webb will appear before the committee again to-morrow. It is thought his testimony will not be concluded before Saturday. During the examination Mr.

Washburn, ex-Minister to Paraguay, was present.
In my despatch, as published in to-day's Herald, relative to the testimony of Mrs. Washburn before the Foreign Relation Committee, a curious typographical error occurs that changes the whole se of the paragraph. It is made to appear that Mrs. Washburn testified that "a plan," instead of "no plan," was discussed at her table to depose Lopez in Paraguay. The correction is important to the

Another Railroad Imbroglio.
On Monday Mayor Bowen informed Mr. Garrett, President of the Paltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, that the City Commissioners were grading Boundary street and had nearly reached the point where the road crossed it. As the track of the ratiroad is several feet below the grade of the street he was notified that it would be necessary for him immediately to raise the track to correspond with the legal grade of the street, or the Commissioners would be compelled to fill it over the rails. As no answer had been received up to noon to-day the laborers, by direction, partially covered the track Much interest was manifested at that point, many persons having gathered to watch the movements.
Officers of the road were sent out to cantion those in charge of the incoming trains and to arrange for pushing them past the obstructions. The trains were, in consequence of the difficulty, considerably delayed in reaching the station. Legal proceedings will be taken by the railroad company with a view to prevent further interference by the Corporation of Cherekees in North Carolina-Misappropriation of Indian Funds.

A delegation of the Cherokee nation, still residing in North Carolina, have arrived in this city with a view to arranging with the Indian Department some plan looking to their removal to the Indian Territory, to which country the bulk of their people transferred the seat of their council some years ago. It is also stated that the delegation will bring up some important matters in relation to certain financial transactions with the government. It appears that a fund of $80,843 was appropriated by Congress to complete the removal of the North Carolina Cherokees west of the Mississippi. Until the removal of the Indians in question they were to receive only the interest-six per cent per annum. During the war this interest was necessarily not paid. During past season this amount was paid There are charges, and it appears well founded, that gross misconduct has occurred in the payment of this amount to the Indians; that Indians known to be dead are represented as receiving their share of the amount. The misapplication of the fund by agents is also brought up. It is understood that these transactions are a fair sample of the manner in which the affairs of the Indians were managed by nscrupulous men during previous administrations

The Counterfeit Revenue Stamps.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has definite information to the effect that only one thousand sheets of the counterfelt sixty pound tobacco stamp were issued altogether. Five numbers of these have been traced to different localities and seized by the government officials. The amount still out represent about $57,000, but it is thought they will be captured eventually. The internal revenue officials say it is the best counterfeit stamp ever executed. It is believed that all the plates, dies and other implements used in manufacturing the stamp have been secured by the detectives, so that the bogus stamp cannot be multiplied beyond the three thou sand or so that are still affoat. Number of Distilleries in Operation

There are between 1,300 and 1,400 distilleries registered on the books at the Internal Revenue office but about 450 only of this number are now in opera-

SUPPOSED MURDER IN NEWARK.

A Man Fatally Assaulted by His Stepsister. Yesterday afternoon County Physician Dodd, at Newark, N. J., was notified that a man named James Sheridan, a resident of No. 30 Oxford street, in the Tweifth ward of the above city, had died under circumstances which strongly indicated four play. Dodd at once visited the home of deceased and found several marks of violence on the latter's stall. Making inquiry into the matter the doctor could obtain no positive information, but several reliable persons gave him to understand that on Wednesday night Sheridan was out walking, with his wife, and on returning home he, being then somewhat under the influence of liquor, became involved in a wordy quarrel with his stepaster. The latter, it is alleged, finally solzed an iron stove cover lifter and struck deceased violently on the head. Sheridan lingored till yesterday morning, when he died. He was about twenty-nine years of age and a 'longshoreman by occupation.

Coroner Lang has been ordered to hold an inquest, as a post-mortem examination will be made to-day. The police have been authorized to arrest Sheridan's stepsister. She was still at large up to hali-past ten o'clock last night, though three persons, Honora Robinson, forty-four; Endget Sheridan, deceased's inother, and Edward Rogers, a resident of No. 32 Oxford street, were taken into custody and are held as witnesses,

THE GREAT DIAMOND ROBBERY.

On the first of October the residence of Mr. D. R. McAlpin, No. 9 West Twenty-ninth street, was entered by burgiars and robbed of between $10,000 and $15,000 worth of diamond jewelry. The particulars of the robbery appeared exclusively in the Herald. The victim advertised a large the Hebald. The victim advertised a large reward to what the teeth of the detectives. No more was heard of the case until last night when it was ascertained that some days ago inspector Dilks ordered detective Pike, of the Seventh precinct, to proceed to Boston for special duty. At nize o'clock last night it was reported in police circles at the central office that the burgiar had been arrested, and was locked up at the Seventh precinct station house. Inquiries made at that station house of Sergoant Coral resulted in the discovery that officer Pike proceeded to Boston by order of Mr. Dilks in search of the thief. On arriving there he learned that the supposed thief was an escaped convict from the Massachusetts State Feultentiary, who on his arrival in Boston, was recognized by officers of that city, and returned to the Pententiary. This is Sergeant Crowe's statement; but private information, obtained from what is believed to be reliable police avanues of information, lead to the belief that the party who robbed Mr. McAlpin is now locked up in one of the numerous police bastiles of the city.
